

We support you!

As a caring relative, you do a remarkable job. Your work is important not only for the people concerned but also for our health care system. No doubt caring relatives are sometimes referred to as the "greatest care service in Switzerland".

But let's face it. Providing care to people who require help is a challenging task. The amount of physical and psychological stress associated to look after your loved one can be great, let alone find time to tend to your own needs.

Thus, you yourself deserve to get some relief in order to provide the best care for your loved one.

This is why we provide our relief service that includes:

- Reliable SRK caregivers
- A consistent caregiver that allows to build trust
- A competent and compassionate care that provides security and well-being

Prior to each initial deployment, our operations manager carefully assesses your needs. Your individual requirements are discussed and then the support is organized accordingly. The application for the service is usually made a few days before the date of the requested first service. In the event the main caregiver does not work out, we promptly find remedy to the situation, and provide the necessary care as soon as possible.

We are here to help 7 days a week:

- individual hours
- half or whole days
- whole nights
- Short- or long-time service

Contact

- Inner canton section (district Schwyz, Gersau, Küssnacht): 041 850 05 38
 - Outer canton section (district Einsiedeln, Höfe, March): 055 450 77 00
- link
- Care and relief SRK

Caring for someone with Dementia

People with dementia need a great amount of care. As the disease progresses over time, dementia sufferers require support to help them get through their everyday life. Dementia is more than memory loss. It can also lead to behavioural or mood changes, as well as other emotional and/or mental issues.

Thus, caring for someone with dementia can be a burdensome task. Apart from the costs associated to providing care for dementia patients, the emotional burden is also particularly high. Caregivers are often exposed to severe stress as the patients become more helpless over time. Therefore, a regular break or time-off is particularly important to have in order to keep you healthy as a family member providing care to your loved one.

Our "Dementia Care at Home" offers an affordable and sustainable assistance, which is geared towards the special needs of dementia sufferers and their relatives.

We provide:

- A dementia care service discount to enable long-term, regular relief
- Experienced SRK nursing assistants who have completed an advanced training course in dementia
- Consistent use of the same caregiver
- Additional support from our other services (visiting and accompanying service, road service, emergency call or occupational therapy)
- Collaboration with other service providers (Alzheimervereinigung, Spitex, Pro Senectute etc.)

Through this support that is tailored to your particular situation, caring for your loved one with dementia becomes manageable. It will give you some sense of relief and will help you focus on your own individual needs. Due to the continuous use of the same SRK nursing assistant and a compassionate treatment approach, your loved one suffering from dementia will also feel secure and comfortable.